Let's Start!

It's time to discuss the next step.

Learning Outcome

Accurately use important information about people's jobs and places of work in communicative situations.

Ask your partner:

- How do you organize your time when you are working on a project?
- Do you plan out all the things you have to do? Why or why not?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about jobs and work.
- I can make and respond to recommendations.
- I can talk about future actions, plans and intentions.

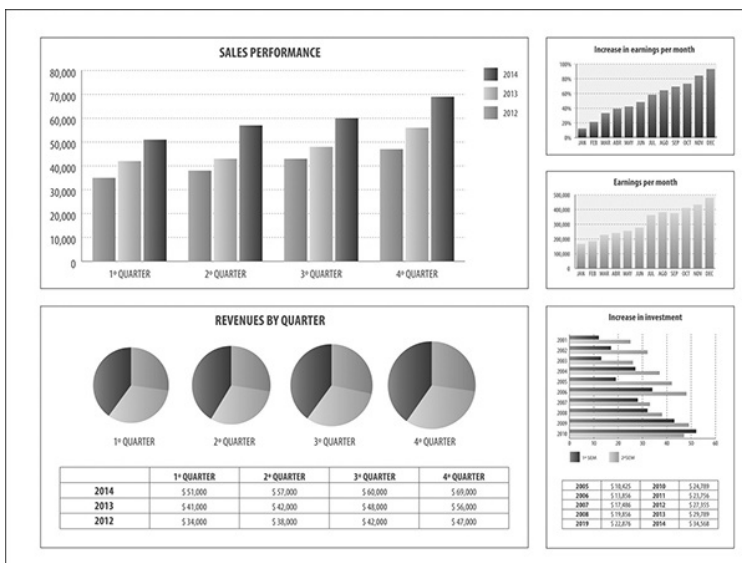

Let's Explore!

Miranda calls Janet in for a last-minute meeting.

* "Last-minute" refers to something that was not scheduled in advance.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Miranda: Hi, Janet. What's the rush? I just got your message.

Janet: I have just received a voicemail from Farmani. He was asking about the proposal. I told him we are working on it. But we need to send this ASAP. The deadline is fast approaching.

Miranda: I agree. I'm working on the last details, but we're going to need to pick a strategy to focus on. Then, I'll be able to finish it.

Janet: You could perhaps change the format. That way it'll be done sooner than later. You might want to have Peter give you a hand with this.

Miranda: That's not a bad idea. I'm meeting him at 2 p.m. Then, we'll work together so we can submit it by the end of the week.

Janet: If I were you, I would try to have this proposal done by Tuesday.

Miranda: Tuesday? That's impossible. I can't meet this deadline. I've set our goals and objectives. I'm also planning PR together with advertising and social media to help us develop an integrated campaign that is less time consuming and will save them money.

Janet: These all sound great. Oh, and before I forget, it looks like we have a competitor.

Let's Practice!

What does Janet recommend? This one, that one or neither?

Instructions: Proofread the sentences. Correct the mistakes. Read the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

1. That's not a bat idea.
2. If I were you, I would try to have this proposaal done by Tuesday.
3. In my experience, planing PR along with advertising works really well.
4. You might want to have Peter give you a jand with this.
5. That way we will be done soon than later.
6. These all sound greyt.

Let's Practice!

What's going to have to happen before the next meeting?

Instructions: Write down the words from the Word Bank to correctly complete the sentences.

1. My team and I are _ on the proposal. I'm working on the last details. We're ____ need to ____ a strategy to focus on. Then, ____ be able to finish it.
2. I'm ____ with my team at 2 p.m. We'll ____ together so we can ____ it by the end of the week. We ____ PR together with advertising and social media.

Talking About Future Actions, Plans, and Intentions

When we know about the future, the Present Tense is used:

- The Present Simple is used for things that are arranged and scheduled:

We have a meeting next Monday.

We need to send this by the end of next week.

- The Present Continuous is used for plans or arrangements:

We are working on getting it done.

I'm meeting her at 4 pm today.

When we don't know much about the future, "Will" is used:

- "Will" is used to make predictions:

We will finish the project by the end of the week.

I think you will enjoy the new strategy.

- "Will" is also used to mean "want to" or "be willing to" :

I hope you will finish the proposal soon.

Janet said Peter will help you.

- "Will" is used to make offers and promises:

I will see you tomorrow after the meeting.

She will send you an email with the details.

- To talk about offers and promises we can also use "will":

Janet will be at the meeting tomorrow.

Peter will help with the proposal.

- "(be) going to" is used to talk about plans and intentions:

I'm going to work on the proposal.

Language For Making Recommendations

In the business world, at times, you have an idea, a recommendation or plan that you think could work for your company.

It is important to use proper language to offer those ideas for someone to consider. Here is some language you can use for making and responding to recommendations:

Making Recommendations	Responding to Recommendations
You could ... * You might want to ... * If I were you, I'd ... * It's generally best/a good idea to ... * One idea is to ... * I suggest ... * * These expressions are followed by a bare infinitive (verb without 'to'). In my experience, ...  Works really well. Have you tried ... ?   These expressions are followed by a noun or -ing form.	That's not a bad idea. I agree. I like the sound of that. That's a good idea. This sounds great.

Examples:

- In my experience, changing the format should work.
- You could perhaps change the format.
- You might want to have someone work with you on this.
- If I were you, I would work hard to have the proposal done.
